

We are delighted to return to De Montfort University on Thursday 23rd June 2022 for our national study day. You may recall in 2020 we had to cancel our study day and instead took that opportunity to rollout our first programme of SPACES webinars to support our members with some amazing speakers. In 2021, our study day went online and was a huge success with 18 speakers over a two week period and some 750 registrations for the different sessions.

So in 2022, we are back in person and would be delighted if you could support us.

The theme is Net Zero Carbon – Building Resilience. It is the biggest challenge we’ve ever faced, and if ever there was a time to pull together, share knowledge, experiences and network it must be now. As always, we will be offering a variety of sessions looking at what others are doing on their Net Zero Carbon (NZC) journey.

We will be exploring a diverse range of areas such as

- What are the strategies most likely to deliver success across an LA estate and how will we know that we are on target?
- Does the industry have the skills, knowledge, training programmes and expertise to respond to NZC?
- Are our financial systems simply unfit to deliver NZC so long as capital and revenue budgets are kept in separate pots?
- Will levelling up help deliver NZC?
- How can the digital revolution help us deliver successful outcomes?

The day will be attended by those responsible for managing Architecture, Construction, Engineering and Surveying services for the Public Sector. We also attract clients and other associated bodies (eg Department for Education, Cabinet Office, etc). Our Study Days provide an excellent opportunity to showcase your company in a professional environment with other sponsors from the industry, with 150 attendees in 2019. Past sponsors include NPS, Pick Everard, Willmott Dixon, Atkins, Faithful+Gould, IES, Ecophon, Concertus and MACE.

Our sponsors have always appreciated the high calibre of our delegates and the ability to network in a relaxed and professional environment, either during the study day itself or the evening before at an informal evening meal where typically fifty delegates attend. By keeping our delegate fee very competitive (in 2019 we charged a delegate fee of £75 for those working for the public sector), linked with high quality speakers, our event has become the one that our members, and other professionals, ensure they attend.

Delegates will be together initially to listen to the keynote speaker, and then one or two breakout sessions and workshops on specialist topic areas will be interleaved with the remaining presentations throughout the day. The expected duration of the day is likely to be 9.00am to 4.30pm. There will also be plenty of opportunity for delegates to visit sponsors’ and exhibitors’ stands during the day, therefore maximising networking opportunities.

The previous day (Wednesday 22nd June) we are looking to arrange an informal dinner followed by drinks in the bar, where there will be an opportunity to network with those delegates staying overnight.

For all of the above accommodation is not part of the package.

I hope you can support this event and I very much look forward to your response. For those who are unfamiliar with SPACES, it comprises the merger of the Society of Construction and Architecture for Local Authorities (SCALA), the Society of Electrical and Mechanical Engineering (SCEME) and the Chief Building Surveyors Society (CBSS). SPACES has created a lot of interest and has been supported by both RIBA and CIBSE presidents. For further information about SPACES visit our website (www.thespaces.org.uk).
